FUND IS SOUGHT

One, High-Class, Glib-Tongued Imbecile, Dies With Problem Unsolved.

New York, July 6 .- A story of a "mystery within a mystery," involving a double coincidence, has come to light through the investigations which were made into the Titanic survivors claims by the Red Cross Emergency Relief Committee of the Charity Organization Society. The business of the committee, which was headed by Robert W. De Forest, and had J. P. Morgan, Jr., J. H. Schiffe and many prominent New Yorkers on it, was to distribute the fund of $157,000 among the needy American survivors of the iceberg-sunk White Star steamship or to the deserving American relatives of those who were lost. The English victims and survivors were taken care of our of British-raised funds amound-

Tells Complete Story.

Yes, he said, he was Daniel Buckley—so the story is told by Arthur P. Kellogg, of the charity organization society; his home was at No. 19 High Street, Chester, England; his father had been dead a long time, and when his mother died, late in 1911, he decided, having no other relatives in England, that he and his sister Catherine would come to America. Scarcely had the committee turned him over to the personal care of the manager of one of the Mills Hotels when the real Daniel Buckley turned up, with his Titanic ticket and other documents. He, too, had a sister Catharine, but she was not on the Titanic arine, but she was not on the Titanic. On the contrary, she had been in New On the contrary, she had been in New York for several years, and was alive

The two Daniel Buckleys were brought face to face, and the first one still insisted that he was a Titanic survivor. He was turned over to the So-clety for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, where a doctor examined him and reported that the boy was a "high-grade imbecile." Meantime, the com-mittee had cabled to Chester, in Eng-Chester had sailed on the Titanic, and

VIRGINIA IS TURNED INTO NURSES' HOME

Memorial Hospital Staff Transferred to Building Which Was Recently Closed.

The question of what to do with the old Virginia Hospital, at Eleventh and Clay Streets, which was closed when the University College of Medicine was board, which has supervision of hosnurses of Memorial Hospital, and was occupied by them last week.

For several years the Nurses' Home of Memorial Hospital has been located on East Broad Street, just below the hospital. These quarters have recently become cramped and crowded, and, with the increase of the hospital nursing staff on the consolidation of the Virginia and the Memorial, it became impossible to comfortably provide for the nurses in the Broad Street home. Sixty nurses and a number of graduate nurses of the Virginia and Memorial Hospital training schools are now living in solid comfort in the building. There are accommodations for even more, and by making a few repairs, provision can be made for future growth of the of Memorial Hospital has been located making a few repairs, provision can be made for future growth of the Memorial Hospital training school.

To Have Supervision. For a month or more following the removal of the patients to the Memo-rial Hospital the Virginia was closed and put to no use. During that time the board of visitors of the Medical College of Virginia, which now owns of a mind to pitch him overboard, but
Mrs. Astor saved him by throwing a cloak over him that made him look not long been buried at Boston when or to find some use for it in connection with the medical college. It was at one time proposed to convert it into a dormitory for the students of the Medical College of Virginia, but this plan did not meet with very hearty approval. At another time there was talk that it was to be taken over by a Richmond physician and converted into a private hospital. Making it into a nurses' home appears to have settled the dilemma of the heard. Miss Scott has been and the board. Miss Scott has been en-gaged as the matron of the home, and will take charge at once.

In response to the recommendation of Miss Agnes D. Randolph, superin-tendent of the Memorial Hospital, the hospital committee has agreed to add a supervisor of nurses to the executive staff of the Memorial. The duty of the supervisor will be to govern the nurses training school of the hospital and relieve the superintendent of the heavy burden. The executive duties of the large hospital are to purpose.

he died there last September.

To this day nobody has been able to find out where that Daniel Buckley spent the fourteen months between his escape from the Massachusetta institution and his appearance in New York as a Titanic claimant. Was he on the Titanic? How did he get the idea that he was a survivor?
